

ULTIMATE WINERY EXPERIENCES AUSTRALIA

SIRROMET

REGION

Granite Belt - Queensland

Situated 600 - 1,500m above sea level, the Granite Belt is Queensland's premium wine-producing region, producing medium-bodied and elegant wines.

Queensland's Granite Belt is located three hours from either Brisbane or the Gold Coast. Served by the New England Highway, this is the only place in Queensland that offers four distinct seasons. This premier wine producing area also experiences growing and ripening conditions unlike elsewhere in Australia. The combination of cool weather and decomposed granite soils produces outstanding wines and a very diverse range of food. Wine production in and around Stanthorpe represents more than 60% of all Queensland production and the region is home to almost 50 winery cellar doors.
